Freight Trains Demonstrating the Futility of Attempting to Pass Each Other on the Main Track.

A disastrous wreck occurred at 4:35 o'clock yesterday morning on the Balt Road, at the Pan-Handle crossing east of the city. An I., B. and W. freight train of forty-three cars of which Charlie Harvey was conductor was passing around on the belt and was stopped at the Pan-Handle crossing to allow a treight train the right of way. There was no flag out, and after the Pan-Handle train hall passed the L. B. and W. train was about to move on, when Edward Lee, conductor of an I. and St. L. freight, came in behind Harvey's train, running at a high rate of speed. The engine of Lee's train, No. 633, and two cars and the caboose and eight L. B. and W. cars were torn to pieces and scattered promiscuously over the tracks. A shipper from Troy, O., named Young, was somewhat bruised up, but the trainmen jumped off in time to save their lives. The loss on the cars and their contents will foot up $10,000 or more, and the damage to the and St. L. engine will make from $2,000 to $8,000 more. The L. and St. L. engineer claims he had no warning of the train in front and could not have prevented the Notice to Gas Consumers and Others.

Your attention is called to the marked reduction in the price of gas, which took effect on the lst day of March. The Company is now furnishing gas to all consumers at $1.80 per 1,000 cubic feet. This price is certainly within the reach of all, for both lighting and cooking purposes. The convenience and comfort of cooking by gaz, especially during the summer months, where a fire is not otherwise required, can only be thoroughly ap-preciated by those who have had experience in its useful application for that purpose. The Company has sold for use in this city during the last four years a large number of gas stoves, and is satisfied from the many testimonials from its patrons, that these stoves "fill a long feit want."

INETRIOR DECORATIONS.

Information on a Topic Interesting to Householders and Housekeepers.

"A few years ago," said Albert Gall to the reporter, "a great many people-nearly everyone, in fact-thought that all there was in paper hanging and interior decoration was to get the paper and paste it on the wall. This is no longer the case. It is now recognized that mural decoration is an art. Different rooms require different treatment. Surroundings are to be considered-the number of openings into a room, its wood work, the height of the ceiling, the way the light is admitted into it. Everything must be in harmony. What would be appropriate for one parlor or bedroom might be in the worst of taste for another parlor or bedroom. "The skilled decorator selects the paper, the paper hanger is only depended upon to do the required work in a work vanlike manner. The decorator is to the paper hanger what the architect is to the builder-all the latter is required to do is to follow the plan laid out for him. A room properly papered, with everything in color and design in harmony, & is a picture, the work of an artist." Mr. Gail continued: "It used to be that in the trade each different style of paper had a specific name. Now the designs are so numerous that specific names are out of the question. For instance, this spring, with an entirely new stock, as last fall I disposed of all my old papers, I have in this room over 800 different designs and in the other room 2,520 different kinds." Here Mr. Gall unrolled innumerable beautiful designs in ceiling decorations, handsome borders and exquisite friezes, and a number of art pieces in Lincrusta Walton.

"Do you know in fine work that we make a design for each room?" said Mr. Gall. "Well, we do. We make it so that the customer can see exactly how the work is to be done, and it is as exact as an architect's plans. My workmen take these diagrams and work by them. The designs this year are chiefly floral, but figure pieces, like these capids, are very popular. Best of all, I am able to sell these beautiful things CHEAP, having bought them when the market was most favorable."
